Brian Ketcherside has been with AEC in our Assembly Department for almost a year. Brian first started as a welder for Allen Engineering but has worked his way to assembly, gaining a great deal of product knowledge along the way. Brian works daily to prep the engines for Allen machines before they are sent down the line for additional assembly. He works hard day in and day out to get the job done and provide great quality equipment for our end users.

Brian and his family live in the Paragould, Ark. area. Paragould has been home for Brian for the majority of his life. He is happily married with 4 girls and 2 boys. During his spare time, he enjoys taking his family up to the Current River in Missouri, to camp and kayak.

When asked what Brian liked the most about working at Allen Engineering, his answer was like most, he loves the family atmosphere here at Allen. Family means a lot to him and his ability to have that both in his personal and his professional life. Brian looks up to the good leadership here at Allen Engineering.

We are grateful to have Brian as a member of Team Allen. His optimistic can-do attitude makes him a great fit here at Allen Engineering.
